ACADEMIC UPDATE

Bhumi had to carry out her education online due to the enforced lockdown The online learning posed new challenges for Bhumi like unavailability of network at times in middle of her classes which led her to miss some key concepts in various subjects. However, she made it up with her resilience and hardwork as soon as the schools reopened post Diwali. She ensured to catch up with her teachers one on one to understand concepts that she had previously missed in the lockdown. She found Mathematics difficult but got all her concepts cleared by her school teachers before attending her internal exams. Bhumi had prepared for board exams which unfortunately got cancelled due to the second wave of the pandemic and now the results will be declared on her internal exams and unit tests where she scored spectacularly good. Bhumi loves Information Technology as a subject and hopes to pursue the same going forward.

EXTRACURRICULAR ACTIVTIES

Bhumi has a keen interest in a lot of indoor games. Carrom and chess are two of her favorite games. She rises above the competition every time she plays a tournament. During a carom tournament held in the year, Bhumi was awarded the top prize with her friend in carrom (doubles). She also participated in a chess tournament where she was the runner-up up. Apart from indoor activities, she also loves to participate in certain outdoor games most notably volleyball. Most recently she got a certificate of appreciation for participating in a volleyball tournament.

BEING AT HOME

Bhumi spent her time at home mostly studying and completing assignments as well as homework she got from school. In her free time she helped out her mother in household work, but given her crucial board exams coming up, her family supported her in the best possible way to find more time to study. Bhumi prepared sweets and snacks for her family to enjoy Diwali.
